> ■ USAGE 用法说明 1 In British English to be/feel sick is to VOMIT or feel that one is going to VOMIT. It is therefore confusing to say I was sick yesterday meaning "I was ill", but all right to use sick in this meaning before a noun 在英国英语中, to be/feel sick 表示呕吐或想吐。因此, 如果说 I was sick yesterday 来表示 "I was ill"（我病了）, 则易引起误解。不过, 在名词之前用 sick 表示"有病的"就不会有错: a sick child（一个有病的孩子）2 A sick person has a disease, not for example a wound or a broken leg, although one may be on sick leave or receive sick pay for these reasons too. a sick person 指有病的人, 但不是指受了伤或断了腿等等, 虽然后者也可以有 sick leave（病假）或领取 sick pay（病假津贴）。
